DAM GIVES AWAY AND FLOODS TOWN

Clifton, Ariz., Inundated And Many Drowned

Conflicting Reports About Loss of Life Received From Different Places.

HALF THE TOWN DESTROYED.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 5.—The only information available concerning the report of a great loss of life at Clifton in southeastern Arizona, is contained in a private dispatch that half the town was destroyed. The population numbers 900. A dispatch from the Globe says the railway commission is out off by the washing away of bridges. It is believed sufficient provisions are in the town to prevent a famine. The flood was caused by a bursting dam.

Message Received.
Globe, Ariz., Dec. 5.—A message from the operator at Solomonville, Ariz., this morning reports 108 persons drowned in the Clifton flood, but gives no details of property damage which, however, is believed to be great.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 5.—A message received here last night from Tucson says that Clifton is half destroyed. The report that between 50 and 60 persons were drowned is partially confirmed.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 5.—From information received here late last night it is believed that the town of Clifton, Ariz., has been practically washed away. The Copper Queen hotel is said to have been swept away by the flood and at least 50 persons lost their lives.

The flood was caused by the Concentrator dam giving away, precipitating a great flood upon the town. The dam was constructed entirely of earth. It was carried away two years ago as a result of swollen streams and a number of persons were drowned.

The dam broke without warning and the raging torrents of water swept down into the town, wrecking buildings and carrying all before it, before the residents scarcely realized what had happened.

The swollen condition of the San Francisco river and Chase creek weakened the dam but it was not thought there was any danger of its collapse.

TWO MORE DIE.
As Result of Being Inoculated by Cholera Serum.

Manila, Dec. 5.—The deaths of two more prisoners at Bilibid prison are reported, making 12 in all dead out of the 24 cholera patients inoculated with the cholera serum as a test. In explanation of these deaths it has been stated that tubes containing cholera serum were accidentally mixed with others filled with plague virus, and that, presumably the latter was used in some cases.

HIGH LICENSE PASSED.
Saloon Men Have to Pay $250 in

TOO SOON

OZMENT STARTED TO CELEBRATE HIS LIBERTY.

Got Drunk Before His Mother "Pald Him Out" and Was Locked Up Again.

Ernest Ozment, a "trusty" at the city jail, was trusted once too often. He had not been out of the lockup three minutes before he was arrested again and a warrant issued against him for being drunk and disorderly.

Ozment was some time ago fined $25 and costs in police court for a misdemeanor. He was permitted to work about the hall. Learning his mother had saved $10 and was coming down to pay it in and secure his release, this being the remainder of the fine, he went to a nearby saloon and celebrated. His mother paid the fine and started down the steps. Impudent remarks were made to Patrolman Aaron Hurley who warned Ozment that if he did not desist he would arrest him. Ozment repeated them and was arrested. His mother was refunded the $10 and Ozment returned to the lockup. It will probably result in an additional fine and confinement in jail with no more trust for Ozment.

Sibley, a white stranger, was shot to death at Del Rio, Valverde county, Texas last night by a body of white men from the town and the adjacent country, who surrounded him in a house in the suburbs of Del Rio and opened fire on the house when Sibley refused to surrender. They accused Sibley of having murdered R. M. Cawthorn and J. R. Ralston, two rich ranchmen of Del Rio. FOET'S STREET TO BE INVADED.

James Whitcomb Riley's Protest Against Asphalt Unheeded.

Indianapolis, Dec. 5.—The march of progress has reached Lockport street, commemorated by James Whitcomb Riley in one of his lyrics. In spite of the protests of the poet and his neighbors the board of public works has ordered that the gravel roadway be replaced with asphalt. The street is only one block long, but the dwellers there have taken pride in its inviting shade trees and restful gravelly roadway, making a retreat in the middle of the city almost approaching the charms of nature. Now they fear its quiet will be broken by the invasion of commercial traffic, and that the street will become as noisy as the main thoroughfares a block away.

There is only one kind of a newspaper circulation statement that is worth any consideration and that is the daily detailed statement. The Sun is the only Paducah paper printing such a statement.

About fifteen years ago Mr. Allen, then a resident of Broad street, contracted to improve Broad street from Sixth street west. The survey was made by the city engineer and through some mistake private property was taken in. Property owners objected to paying estimate, and the suit resulted, Allen suing as contractor.

PUNISH PARENTS OF WAYWARD BOYS

Plan of School Board To Correct An Evil

Tenant Officer May Be Appointed to Look After Incurable Youths of City.

MUCH TROUBLE EXPERIENCED

Parents are responsible for the conduct of their children.

Supt. C. M. Lieb, of the city schools, discovered in the statutes of Kentucky a provision for the disciplining of bad boys, and indications point to the selection of one or more tenant officers by the school board. The matter last night was deferred, pending discussion in the committee room, and will be brought up shortly to be reported on at the board meeting just before Christmas.

"After patient research we found this clause in the statutes," said Supt. Lieb. "It does not inflict direct punishment on the child, but effects its ends through the parents. It will compel the parents to control the boy or suffer a fine.

The clause to which Supt. Lieb refers is house bill, No. 226, which reads that tenant officers may be appointed by the school board and that their duties shall be to seek out truants, and other boys who interfere with the conduct of the schools. He shall take them "before a magistrate" where a fine of from $5 to $20 for the first offense may be assessed against one of the parents and from $10 to $50 for the second offense.

Since the juvenile court law was passed great trouble had been experienced by incorrigible boys. Their crimes are too small for a term in the reform school and there being no place in the city to confine them, the authorities are powerless to inflict punishment. Through the appointment of a tenant officer the parents may be brought into the court.

TRAIN HIT HIS FORTUNE.

Scattered $20,000 Along the Tracks and Killed a Quaker.

Calvin Harlan, aged 65, an aged, eccentric Quaker who did not believe in banks and who was carrying with him in his buggy gold coin and bank notes amounting to about $20,000, was struck by a train from Harrisburg, Penn., near Ashland, Baltimore county, and so badly injured that he died soon after being removed to a Baltimore hospital, says a Baltimore telegram.

His body and a part of his buggy were carried for nearly a mile on the locomotive pilot and his money was scattered along the tracks. The station master at Ashland recovered over $4,000 in gold coin and another railroad man took $5,000 in notes out of a creek running alongside the railroad. A passenger on the train found a roll containing $1,500 wedged between two rocks. Other passengers and railroad men picked $20 gold pieces and other coin and notes along the side of the tracks.

LONDON COMMENT ON THE MESSAGE

Tone Generally Favorable, Especially About Japs

Standard Says President "Up Against the American Constitution" Too Much.

CHANGE FUNDAMENTAL LAWS.

London, Dec. 5.—President Roosevelt's message occupies the most prominent place in the leading newspapers this morning, and has attracted widespread attention from the government officials, diplomats and public. The prevailing tone of comment is favorable, particularly with reference to the president's statements of the Japanese question, the newspapers emphasizing the president's warning of the possible use of federal forces for the protection of the Japanese. This feature has given especial satisfaction in official Japanese quarters, where it is pointed out that Japan is satisfied to await the outcome of the issue between state and federal authorities.

The Telegram says the president speaks out resolutely and fearlessly knowing Democracy like a man who is not afraid to be its master.

The Standard says the significant feature of the message is that "the president is constantly finding himself 'up against' the American constitution. Foresighted observers have long since seen that the United States has outgrown its cradle, yet the conservative sentiment of the most conservative people on earth clusters strongly around the constitution. If there are to be reforms they can only result from a drastic reconstruction of the political system and the prospect of their realization appears somewhat remote."

WARDS ORGANIZE AGAINST DANGER

No Room For Red Light In Any Section

Strong Speeches Made at Citizens' Meeting at City Hall Last Night.

MEET AGAIN NEXT TUESDAY.

Every ward in the city was organized to fight the evil of disreputable characters settling in respectable neighborhoods, at the mass meeting of citizens at the city hall last night. Over an hundred attended the meeting, and the chairman and members of the committees from each ward were appointed as follows:

Third—J. G. Miller, chairman; Messrs. Blech, Jones, Hamilton and Griffith, committeemen.

Fourth—Young Taylor, chairman; Wyvall and Kenner, committeemen.

Fifth—Charles Schmitt, chairman; The Rev. P. H. Fields, John Bryant, C. H. Chamblin, George Shelton, E. E. Hill, W. F. Flowers, committeemen.

Sixth—R. S. Barnett, chairman; Henry McGee, Capt. Ed Farley, Geo. Ingram and W. R. Jones, committeemen.

The committee from the Third ward will meet tomorrow night with Chairman Miller in his office. The Fourth ward committee will meet with Chairman Young Taylor at his residence also tomorrow evening. The committees in the other wards will get together immediately, and the mass meeting adjourned last night to meet in the same place next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock when reports will be received on progress made.

C. W. Morrison was elected chairman of the mass meeting last night, vice Chairman Karnes, who was attending the school board.

The committee appointed last Friday night to secure the names of landlords who rented their property to disreputable characters, made a partial report, in which they stated that one landlord had complied with their request to have the women vacate, others promised to do so immediately, and the committee asked for more time to complete its work. The report was received and further time granted.

Plain Speeches Made. Several plain and vigorous speeches were made. They were applauded enthusiastically and the organization of all the wards in the city at the close of the meeting, was due to the inspiring speeches made.

Attorney J. G. Miller, the Rev. Calvin Thompson, pastor of the First Baptist church, Mr. Joe Potter, Mr. Gus Singleton and the Rev. G. W. Banks, pastor of Trimble street church, spoke in the order named.

Attorney Miller said this is a movement in which every man, irrespective of his private character, must be interested. He told of the effect on children of permanent places of evil; said that bawdy houses cannot be maintained without a constant influx of new victims supplied out of our homes; that some men are able to do evil only because others do good; for the moment all became evil, utter ruin and confusion would result. He said a colony of criminals if left to themselves, would evolve some sort of government out of sheer necessity, and that our government organized for protection, must be maintained. "Do we set aside a spot for horse thieves to have as their own, or murderers? How then do they tell you that we should set aside a spot of God's green earth for bawdy women? Why one of the madams of West Kentucky avenue, for whom it was necessary for me to have legal dealings, said to me herself, 'There ought to be a board fence built on Broadway to shut out the view of Kentucky avenue from the girls who have to pass going to and from school.' If this woman was alive to the evil, shall we remain indifferent?" Mr. Miller closed with an appeal for the citizens to stand squarely behind Judge Reed.

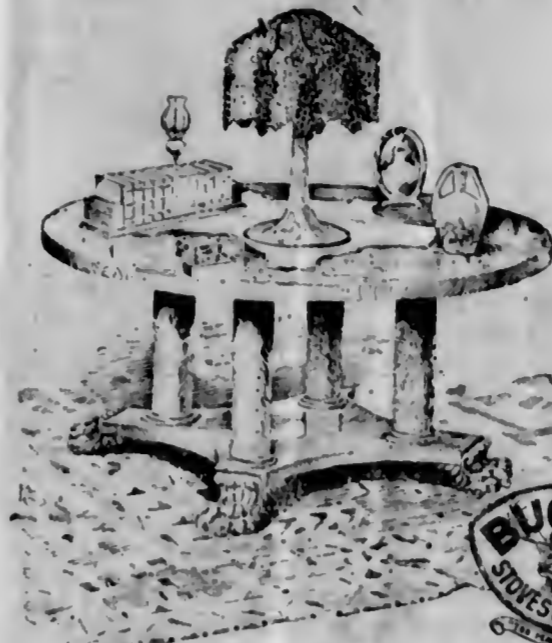

Dr. Thompson said he was glad to be present with men. He did not believe in toleration of evil "an inevitable and necessary. He said that men and women are on the same moral plane. His speech was applauded and was a strong appeal for a moral awakening.

Mr. Joe Potter in his usual forceful style told how Judge Reed had aided the movement and had done what numerous other officers had never done. He urged not only a house-cleaning in the one subject before the meeting, but a general moral clean-up.

Mr. Gus Singleton responded to calls for a speech and said he stood for the right. His remark that a "one-eyed constable and a crippled justice of the peace" could clean up the town was vigorously applauded.

Mr. Young Taylor made the motion that all wards organize for work, and Mr. J. G. Miller said if the one law of vagrancy were enforced, it would be adequate to accomplish their purpose.

The committees named last night are to form a nucleus around which an effective organization in each ward will be built.

Daily Thought.

"One cheerful word conjoins to its friendship a hundred more."

THE REFORM PRESIDENT.

Between the selfishness of vested interests and the ravings of the demagogue, President Roosevelt in a high place demonstrates the experience of every honest man. These two are his Scylla and Charybdis—they are to him as the devil and the deep, blue sea. He says: "The triumph of the mob is just as evil a thing as the triumph of the plutocracy. He hates the 'corruptionists,' but in the same measure he despises the 'preachers of mere discontent.' Earnestly striving to unhorse the former he arouses the other 'who seek to excite a violent class hatred.' Roosevelt is honest with what Alfred Henry Lewis calls a 'militant honesty.' Some men shrink from dishonesty. The Roosevelt type goes out to meet it and give it battle. For this reason he must speak out against wrong wherever he sees it, and when he does he finds, 'The sinister demagogues who sometimes seek to associate themselves with those working for a genuine reform.' Thus we find him in his message to congress pointing out drastic measures of radical reform and preaching conservatism, striking a blow at corruption and spurning the demagogue. Roosevelt is a reformer in every thing, but unlike many, who would remedy conditions, the presence of corruption in a body does not condemn the whole matter in his eyes. He is more like a good surgeon, bent on removing the evil and giving the good part a chance to heal over. This marks him a constructive, not a destructive reformer. Many good men there are in politics, many more good men than bad. But there is one in a million with the courage to undertake reforms; not because they fear the opposition of those they must attack, but because they fear the yawning pack of demagogues, who revel in destruction for destruction's sake.

This disposition of Roosevelt to do things, and do them conservatively, fearless of the protests of those he hurts, and heedless of the demands of the visionaries behind, has induced him to treat us to an unusual amount of preaching about plain moral propositions, and his latest message to congress is no exception.

On the question of capital and labor he says the visionaries who are frenzied by demagoguery would bring about a condition of squalid anarchy that would impel us to turn to any sort of leader who would insure us peace. He calls on the "plain people who think—the mechanics, farmers, merchants, workers with head or hand"—to rally to his support both against selfish interests and the "preachers of mere discontent."

There must be a stern refusal to be misled into following el-ther that base creature who appeals and panders to the lowest instincts and passions in order to arouse one set of Americans against their fellows, or that other creature, equally base but no baser, who in a spirit of greed, or to accumulate or add to an already huge fortune, seeks to exploit his fellow-Americans with callous disregard to their welfare of soul and body. Concerning lynching he says:

Be it remembered, furthermore, that the individuals who, whether from folly, from evil temper, from greed for office, or in a spirit of mere base demagoguery, indulge in the inflammatory and incendiary speeches and writings which tend to arouse mobs and to bring about lynching, not only thus excite the mob, but also tend by what criminologists call "suggestion," greatly to increase the likelihood of a repetition of the very crime against which they are inveighing.

Again he says:

In enacting and enforcing such legislation as this congress already has to its credit, we are working on a coherent plan, with the steady endeavor to secure the needed reform by the joint action of the moderate men, the plain men who do not wish anything hysterical or dangerous, but who do intend to deal in resolute common-sense fashion with the real and great evils of the present system. The reactionaries and the violent extremists show symptoms of joining hands against us. Both assert, for instance, that if logical, we should go to government ownership of railroads and the like; the reactionaries, because on such an issue they think the people would stand with them, while the extremists care rather to preach discontent and agitation than to achieve solid results. As a matter of fact, our position is as remote from that of the Bourbon reactionaries as from that of the impracticable or sinister visionaries. We hold that the government should not conduct the business of the nation but that it should exercise such supervision as will insure its being conducted in the interest of the nation. Our aim is, so far as may be, to secure, for all decent, hard working men, equality of opportunity and equality of burden.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Every president's message to the congress is well worth reading, as it forecasts more clearly than anything else the attitude of his party during his incumbency toward all public questions touched upon; it indicates the policy of the administration; focuses attention on matters of most immediate importance, and last, but not least, reflects the character of its author himself.

The lengthy message prepared this time by President Roosevelt for the fifty-ninth congress is of more than usual importance, because this administration has taken an entirely new course in internal affairs, enlarged the scope of our foreign interests, and instituted a number of public works, on which the views of the chief magistrate are interesting. The Japanese-San Francisco, embroglio, the Cuban question, the ship subsidy and the inheritance and income taxes are the subjects we looked forward to with interest.

The message is Rooseveltian in style. No time is lost in getting down to the meat of the matter; it is written in terse English; it is frank; there is nothing of the nation's business too small for executive consideration; it is temperate.

There are no surprises in the communication. The country was apprised weeks ago as to its content and purport. We were expecting something a little more drastic, perhaps, about railroads, but are pleased to see how temperate and consistent, yet persistent the president is on that point, advising congress to give more time to the test of the law, but making sure that more power must be vested in the interstate commerce commission. Roosevelt shows the broadness of his mind and the clearness of his purpose sometimes by stopping in pursuit of a specific object to turn attention to a wrong being done in that very pursuit. He suggests that railroads should be allowed to combine with the knowledge and under the direction of the commission, in order that they may protect themselves against the power of monopolistic shippers.

As usual he places his discussion of the Japanese question on a high plane and declares in the beginning that nations owe a moral duty as well as individuals. He then delivers himself of some sound philosophy that rings true, but will not appeal to San Franciscans, who have the practical side of the proposition so close to them as to obscure that larger view only possible from the outside and at a distance.

The president's views regarding Cuba are well known. He favors re-establishment of independent, home rule on the island, but is ready to act in the alternative if necessary.

Frankly admitting that a former ship subsidy bill contained objectionable features, President Roosevelt advises congress to pass the senate bill, at least, to the extent of granting a subsidy to build up South American lines. Root's Kansas City speech makes clear the necessity.

The president is inimical to the perpetuation of swollen fortunes and would tap wealth protruberations with the lance of inheritance tax. He is wholly in favor of it and says the principle has been adopted time and time again.

The income tax he looks on as a means of distributing the burden of taxation according to the benefits received and the protection afforded by the government. Since the supreme court was close on the question when it was adjudicated, the president is hopeful that a law conforming to the constitution may be drafted to meet the requirements.

All through his message the idea of centralization plays an important part. He desires centralization, because with his usual impatience at delay and imperfect accomplishment he realizes that a central government may do more to remedy wrongs than 48 states legislating for themselves. He believes the federal government should take up the divorce question, and this affords him another chance to decry "race suicide."

OUR HOME AFFAIRS.

With a reference to our home affairs the message indicates that the presidential mind is still bent on reform, but there is nothing startling in its terms and proposals. Time was when some of the things touched upon would have excited the use of big headlines. We have grown used to them. Once we looked upon Roosevelt as sensational and erratic. We know differently now. Whereas, heretofore presidents have given thought to internal affairs only to suggest means of developing our commercial and industrial enterprises, Roosevelt's task is to regulate them—trim them that they may grow straight and symmetrical.

He advises a bill prohibiting corporations from contributing to the campaign expenses of any party. He asks that the government's right to appeal in matters of law in criminal cases be established. It exists in some states and the District of Columbia. Now rich law breakers are knocking out indictments and criminal proceedings on technical points. In lower courts, leaving their guilt undetermined and the government without means of pursuing the prosecution.

Significantly on this point, the president says: "The importance of the particular bill in question is further increased by the fact that the government has now definitely begun a policy of resorting to the criminal law in those trust and interstate commerce cases, where such a case offers a reasonable chance of success."

The president sees little hope of the labor unions' movement to abolish injunctions in capital and labor controversies, but he does suggest a remedy for flagrant abuses of the temporary restraining order, an order, which he says many judges have come to consider as a matter of course whenever prayed for. This restraining order is entered and often continued until it has accomplished the defeat of the ends of the person against whom it is invoked, and won an unearned victory for the petitioner, in cases where a permanent injunction would be denied.

The president's suggestion as to the employers' liability law, which no doubt will meet with vigorous opposition in congress, would quickly dispense with the need of factory and building inspectors. His idea simply is to make the employer liable for all fatalities and casualties in the direct line of employment. The president reasons that now the whole community has to bear the expense of maintaining those made helpless by industrial accidents, whereas the man who profits by the industry should bear it. He argues that if such a law was passed manufacturers quickly will provide the latest safety appliances and charge them to the legitimate expenses of the business, assessing the cost finally on the consumers.

He urges an extension of the eight hour law and its enforcement in all government work. The child labor situation also is suggested as a field for investigation.

Citing a loss of $307,000,000 to 6,105,694 employees, and of $143,000,000 to 117,509 employers in ten years through strikes and lockouts, the president urges the appointment of a commission for the compulsory arbitration of labor troubles. He adds that the monetary loss and the temporary paralysis of industry is as nothing compared to the physical suffering of the women and children of wage earners deprived of their income.

NO SOCIALISM HERE.

The royalty system for leasing coal lands by the government is advocated by President Roosevelt. This is not startling. It is merely business principles in government, and has no tendency toward nor relation to government ownership. He has recalled from snle all public domains, which the geological survey shows is underlain with coal and minerals.

Monday we read: "Terry McGovern, the prize fighter, called at the white house and paid his respects to the president." Yesterday the news columns contained: "Terry McGovern, former champion lightweight of the world, became suddenly crazed today. He had a big loaded shell in his pocket. 'It was fortunate for the president that nothing occurred to delay Terry's call at the white house.'"

And yet, too often we fear palmed justice has sent out a constable, who turns his blind side toward the gamblers and the women of the red light.

We would like to know what the person who paid $10 for the man that wouldn't work at Elizabethtown expects to do with him.

If it should turn out that Harry is not acquitted, Count Boni, no doubt, would take care of Mrs. Thaw's house in Paris.

Japanese statesmen protest that they are America's true friends. Now we are beginning to fear they do hate us.

Relief for Rheumatism.

These damp days are hard on people afflicted with rheumatism, and relief is sought in all sorts of remedies.

There is no doubt in the minds of people who have suffered with the dread disease and those who have studied it closely that probably more relief can be secured from the Osteopathic treatment than any other.

Of course, some chronic cases won't yield to any treatment, but instances of cases of seven and eight years' standing yielding to three months' treatments can be cited. If you are suffering of rheumatism, I should like to discuss your case with you, examine you and tell you what I can do for you. With the dry hot air treatment that I use with osteopathy I am having very gratifying success with people you know well.

Colon, Dec. 5.—Up to last night ten inches of water had fallen in Colon during twenty-four hours. The Chagres river has reached the highest point ever known and is still rising. Communication and traffic by way of the Panama railroad is interrupted. Inhabitants of the village north of Bas Obispo necessarily will suffer greatly from the flood, as it will be impossible to get relief to them unless the Chagres subsides.

Theatrical Notes

AT THE KENTUCKY.
Friday Night ..... "My Dixie Girl."
Saturday Matinee and Night ..... "A Woman of Mystery."

"My Dixie Girl."

A true daughter of the south is Miss Sadie Calhoun, who, with all the independence of her illustrious forefathers, has just refused $1,000 for the use of her photograph for reproduction as a poster. Though they may not know it, the American public has for some time been familiar with Miss Calhoun's prototype in the dashing figures of equestriennes shown in the paintings of such well known artists as Remington, Charles Russell, Christie and others for whom she has posed. Her photograph has been shown at photographic and art exhibitions, and big advertisers have made her offers for its use. She declares that as she has adopted the stage as her life's profession, she can make all the money she needs from this source. Miss Calhoun will be seen at The Kentucky on Friday night in the successful comedy drama "My Dixie Girl," supported by a company of exceptional merit.

"Woman of Mystery."

Indications point to an overflowing house for the performance of a "Woman of Mystery," at The Kentucky Saturday matinee and night. The event has been thoroughly advertised, not only in the city, but the surrounding towns, as well, showing that the company is well managed and meritorious. Prices are reasonable. A "Woman of Mystery" is a great play and all are anxious to see a first-class performance. Everyone that knows the life of Bernhardt knows of the play "Woman of Mystery," and in the hands of a special company, an entertainment above the ordinary is to be expected.

Guaranteed Attraction.

H. Greenway, agent for Charley Grapevine, who comes to the Kentucky Monday night in "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp," the hit of two seasons, is in the city.

In regard to this piece Manager Roberts of The Kentucky has received a communication from John W. Dunne, one of the best known theatrical managers in the country. The letter is as follows:

"I will be with you Monday, December 19, with Charley Grapevine, supported by Anna Chance, and a company of forty talented people in 'The Awakening of Mr. Pipp.' The excellence of the companies I have sent you in the past, such as 'Patti Brown,' 'Mary Marie and Little Chip,' 'Babies in Toyland' and 'Flordora,' should be a sufficient guarantee to your public that Charley Grapevine will 'deliver the goods.' You can assure your patrons that this is the best show I have ever managed and that it will please them as well as any attraction you have had in years. We are not begging for patronage, but I want your people to know that if this attraction does not make good with them, I will return their money."

George Sidney, in "Busy Izzy's Vacation," is the attraction Tuesday night.

William Owen, the sterling Shakespearean actor has been engaged for the New Year's attraction at The Kentucky.

RHEUMATIC FOLKS!

Are You Sure Your Kidneys Are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to uric acid in the blood. But the duty of the kidneys is to remove all uric acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive. Don't dally with "uric acid solvents." You might go on all day with them, but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove uric acid, but cure the kidneys and then all danger from uric acid is ended. Here is Paducah testimony to prove it.

Mrs. E. B. Barnard, residing at 1608 Broadway, Paducah, says: "My husband had to give up the grocery business on account of so much sickness in the family, and I believe for the last six years I have hardly seen a well day until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Alvey & List's drug store. I heard of them and knew of their benefitting others right here in Paducah, so I made up my mind to try them. My son and I each used a box and we soon found they were just the remedy we needed for we were both troubled with kidney ailments. The lameness left my back entirely and the rheumatism with which I had been afflicted was much improved. We can both highly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as a kidney remedy of great merit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

People and Pleasant Events

Miss Katherine Powell Honoree. Mrs. William F. Bradshaw and Mrs. William F. Bradshaw, Jr.'s beautiful card party yesterday afternoon at their home on West Broadway, was a charming compliment to Miss Katherine Powell, one of the winter's attractive debutantes. The house was effectively decorated in Christmas colors of red and green. There were about 80 guests present and the many handsome costumes in evidence added to the brilliancy of the scene.

The married ladies' prize, a rainbow scarf, was won by Mrs. Armour Gardner. Miss Clara Thompson captured the young ladies' prize, The beautifully appointed luncheon served after the game, carried out the red and green motif. At one table were grouped this winter's and a number of last year's debutantes, with charming effect.

Mrs. William F. Bradshaw was very handsome in a costume of black crepe de chine.

Mrs. Will Bradshaw, Jr., wore a beautiful reception toilette of white lace.

Miss Katherine Powell, the guest of honor, was piquant and charmingly girlish in an effective gown of white chiffon cloth with forget-me-not blue trimmings.

C. D. C. Chapter.

The December meeting of Paducah chapter U. D. C. was held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Luke Russell, of West Jefferson boulevard. It was the first meeting of the chapter under the new officers elected in November, and was an interesting occasion.

Mrs. Joseph W. Thompson, the retiring active president, who was made honorary president for life, called the chapter to order and presented the gavel, with a graceful speech, to Mrs. James Koger, the incoming president. Mrs. Koger responded very happily. Routine business was then transacted.

Mrs. Luke Russell gave a delightful report of the National U. D. C. convention at Gulfport, Miss., which she attended with Mrs. Roy W. McKinney, the state president, as delegate from the local chapter. Mrs. William T. Anderson, of Arcadia, read a clever paper on "Anti-Bellum Politics." Mrs. Palmer Wheat, of Manila, P. I., was a guest of honor of the chapter and made an interesting talk on the Philippines and the effort that is being made there to organize an U. D. C. chapter.

A course luncheon was attractively served by the hostesses during the social session.

70th Birthday Honored.

Mrs. Charles W. Thompson, of South Sixth street, entertained a few of the closest friends of her mother, Mrs. Rebecca H. Corbett, at dinner today in honor of Mrs. Corbett's 70th birthday. It was a delightful "come and spend the day" affair, with a pretty planned old-fashioned dinner.

Mrs. Corbett's keen sympathy with her children's interests and pleasures has kept her as young in feeling as she is handsome in appearance, and it is hard for her friends to realize she has these years to her credit, so gracefully does she wear them. She has a host of friends throughout Kentucky, where her distinguished husband, the late Thomas H. Corbett, was much in public life and honors.

BYRD IS SEATED BY SCHOOL BOARD

After Long Debate, But Without Discord

Schools Will Close Friday Preceding
Christmas to Open January
2—Truant Officer.

NOT CHOSEN BY THE TRUSTEES

W. T. Byrd was seated last night at the meeting of the school board after a lengthy debate. This was the first matter acted on. Other matters were principally routine.

Trustees Gallman and Troutman were absent.

In calling the roll the name of W. T. Byrd was omitted. There was a question as to his being a member and the charter was appealed to. A lengthy discussion followed. President Williamson did not consider Mr. Byrd a member, because he was not accepted as a member when elected a year ago, but was later accepted to serve until the "next general election." Mr. Byrd was elected in November for the "long term." Because Mr. Metcalf, Mr. Byrd's successor, had not qualified several members held that Mr. Byrd could not be unseated. President Williamson explained that he had no feeling in the matter, and was merely following his construction of the charter.

In view of the fact that Mr. Metcalf had not qualified, Trustee Beckenbach moved to declare Mr. Byrd a member. The motion carried.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were adopted.

Superintendent's Report.

Supt. C. M. Lieb reported that it seems impossible to secure men to complete the new room at the McKinley school; that more seats are needed; new cleansing material for floors; and more brushes. He said the board must select several substitute teachers. An examination of teachers was held in November. Superintendent Lieb reported that a great deal of trouble is being experienced generally from truants, and boys not in school. He suggested that a truant officer would prove an economical investment, and urged that one be engaged. In closing a list of tardy teachers was read with the reasons given. The report was received and filed.

Supt. Lieb stated that he had talked with members of the committee on examination and course of study relative to securing an assistant to the science teacher. Acting on assurance that the committee would recommend payment of the salary, he had secured Frank Young, a Paducah boy. His work is light, but a great help to the science teacher. He urged the young man be permanently employed.

Supt. Lieb recommended the payment of $10 to Miss Brandon who was ill a short time. This is the difference between the salary of the regular and substitute teacher. This is customary, and the amount was allowed.

Frank Young's salary as assistant to the science teacher, $4.50, was allowed.

Finance Report.

Chairman A. List, of the finance committee, reported as follows: November 1, balance on hand, $6,964.99; received from state $7,011.66; total on hand $14,076.65. The pay roll amounting to $4,402.09 was allowed.

Miscellaneous bills amounting to $1,476.71 were allowed.

The committee on supplies was instructed to buy 100 new desks.

Fred Hoyer, superintendent of buildings, filed his monthly report of repairs done, and the condition of buildings.

Plastering on McKinley school was found defective when the building was completed and a balance of $150 on contract price held up until the defects are remedied. The committee did not know if the work had been done. Trustees Karnes and Walton urged payment of the amount. President Williamson and Trustee Peiter wished to inspect. The motion to allow the amount was lost, only seven members, not a majority of the members elect, voting "yea."

The committee recommended Misses Maude Bryant and Addie Goheen as teachers in two rooms just fitted out, one at the Washington and one at the McKinley school.

Applications from Miss Fannie Stanley, Mrs. Annie Oliver Jones and Miss Clara St. John for positions in the schools were filed.

The committee's report was adopted. Misses Bryant and Goheen being elected.

The motion to have a record made of all money received for damaged school property and fines against school children, was adopted.

Truant Officer.

The matter of a truant officer was discussed. Trustee Walton favored employing such an officer. Trustee Beckenbach did not think the officer necessary as the schools had no room for any more pupils. Supt. Lieb stated that boys who came to the school grounds and misbehave, inciting others to play truant and grow indifferent, are the ones school authorities are after. No action was taken.

It was decided to close the schools on Friday before Christmas, to open January 2.

A snarlshoe for wages of Henry Moore, colored, janitor at the Jefferson building, was filed. The salary was ordered held up pending action of the court. Moore had given an order on the board for his wages. The board did not recognize the order.

John Jack and A. Howell, colored, applied for the position of janitor at the Garfield colored school. Referred.

The board adjourned until Thursday, when salaries will be allowed.

EXPENSIVE MAN AT SMALL PRICE

Dock Auberry, Sold For One Dollar To Blacksmith.

Continued Vagrant Put on Block and Knocked Down for Term of Nine Months.

MUST FEED AND SHELTER HIM

Elizabethtown, Ky., Dec. 5.—Dock Auberry, who was sold into servitude under the vagrancy laws of Kentucky yesterday, is now the bondman of J. J. Johnson, a blacksmith living near Elizabethtown. For the sum of $1 Johnson procures the services of Auberry for nine months. During that time he must feed and shelter him, provide him with clothes, medical attention and all necessities.

It was a strange scene when Sheriff George Yates led Auberry out in front of the court house yesterday afternoon and proceeded to offer him for sale. People had been coming into town all morning to attend. There was a crowd around the door, prepared to enjoy the unusual event and have some fun with Dock.

When Dock appeared, however, he was such a pathetic sight, and conducted himself with such stolid dignity that those who had come to laugh at the vagrant, were more disposed to pity him.

Sheriff Yates first read the decree of the circuit court authorizing the sale of Dock Auberry for nine months to the highest bidder for cash in hand.

"How much am I offered for Dock Auberry," called the sheriff.

There was no response at first. Then somebody out in the crowd yelled "Fifty cents." There was a laugh, the tension was relieved and the jokers in the crowd got busy.

"You're no cheap man, are you, Dock?" shouted on.

"Boost your price, Dock. You don't want to sell for small change."

"That's only one-third of a cent a pound for Dock."

"Dock's worth a dollar, anyway."

Sheriff Yates called for more bids. There was no disposition to enter into competition for Dock, however. Finally J. J. Johnson offered $1.

That was a more dignified price than 50 cents, at least, and even Auberry looked somewhat relieved. Sheriff Yates kept him up a few minutes longer, then, seeing he could get no more, sold him to Johnson for a dollar.

Auberry is a young white man about 30 years old. He was born and reared near Elizabethtown. He is an able-bodied chap, and is of rather good appearance. He blames his troubles on his marriage.

Sixteen months ago he married the daughter of Joseph Hicks. Dock had never been a worker, but marriage seemed to deprive him of any disposition he had ever had to labor. It is said that he has worked only five days in the sixteen months. His wife's family grew weary of his slothfulness and finally instituted vagrancy proceedings against him.

Auberry denies that he refuses to work because he is lazy. He says he refused because "too many people were interfering with his business."

"Seeing the Southwest" EXCURSIONS

Doubtless you have heard of the Bumper Crops which have been raised this year in Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, Texas and New Mexico. Have you compared them with results obtained in your section? Is your work where you are, bringing you adequate returns for the capital invested and the labor expended? If not, a change would be beneficial perhaps. A visit to the Southwest will open your eyes. Out in Oklahoma the last big land opening is soon to take place; farms are still very cheap in Western Arkansas, Northern Louisiana and the Gulf Coast of Texas. Let us give you full information about these sections. You will want to see them after you have examined our illustrated literature.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"So," said De Collin, "with a sudden happy thought. 'I charge them with laying their hands down while on duty and with having their uniforms dirty and disarranged.'"

"That is better," answered the sergeant, with the freedom of a privileged veteran. "Thunder of God, but you have disgraced the guards! An hour on the wooden horse with a musket at either foot may teach you that hussars were made for a soldier's hand and not for the king's graces!"

The Huguenot had stood in the background, grave and composed, without any sign of excitement, during this sudden reversal of fortune, but when the soldiers were gone he and the young officer turned warmly upon each other.

"Amory, I had not hoped to see you!"

"Nor I you, uncle. What in the name of wonder brings you to Versailles?"

"My wrongs, Amory. The hand of the wicked is heavy upon us, and whom can we turn to save only the king?"

The young officer shook his head. "The king is at heart a good man," said he. "But he can only see the world through the glasses which are held before him. You have nothing to hope from him."

"He spurned me from his presence," said he. "Did he ask you your name?"

"He did, and I gave it."

The young guardsman whistled. "Let us walk to the gate," said he. "By my faith, if my kinsmen are to come and bandy arguments with the king it may not be long before my company finds itself without its captain. What is yours?"

"Twenty men of Mont have been quartered upon me, with one Halbert, their captain, who has long been a scourge to Israel."

"Captain Claude Halbert of the Langue-d'oc dragoons? I have already some small score to settle with him. What has he done?"

"His men are over my house like fleas from a dog. No place is free from them. He sits in the room which should be mine, his great boots on my Spanish leather chairs, his pipe in his mouth, his wine pot at his elbow and his talk a blessing and an abomination. He has beaten old Pierre at the warehouse and thrust me into the cellar."

"Ha!"

"Because I have dragged him back when in his drunken love he would have thrown his arms about your sons in Aisle?"

"Oh!" The young man's color had been rising and his brows knitting at each successive charge, but at this last his anger boiled over, and he hurried forward with fury in his face, dragging his elderly companion by the elbow.

"How did you come, uncle?"

"In a calèche."

"Where is it?"

"That is it, beyond the nubergs."

"Come, let us make for it."

"And you, Amory, are you coming?"

"My faith, it is time that I came, from what you tell me. There is room for a man with a sword at his side in this establishment of yours."

"But what would you do?"

"I would have a word with this Captain Halbert. Ha, here comes our calèche! Whip up, driver, and five lives to you if you pass the gate of the Invalids within the hour."

It was no light matter to drive fast in an age of springless carriages and deeply rutted roads, but the driver lashed at his two rough, mulish horses, and the calèche jolted and clattered upon its way.

"When was all this?" asked the guardsman.

"It was yesterday night."

"And where is Adele now?"

"She is at home."

"And this Halbert?"

"Oh, he is there also."

"What! You have left her in his power while you came away to Versailles?"

"She is locked in her room."

"Pah! What is a lock?" The young man raved with his hands in the air at the thought of his own impotence.

"And Pierre is there."

"He is useless."

"And Amos Green."

"Ah, that is better. He is a man by the look of him."

"His mother was one of our own folk from St. Louis Island, near Manhattan. She was one of those scattered Indians who died early before the wolves when first it was seen that the king's hand waved heavily upon Israel. He speaks French, and yet he is neither French to the eye nor are his ways like our ways."

"And you have left him in the house?"

"Yes; he was sent with this Halbert, smoking with him and telling him strange tales."

"What guard could be he in a stranger in a strange land? You did ill to leave Adele thus, uncle."

"She is in God's hands, Amory."

"I trust so. Oh, I am on fire to be there!"

Soon, as the road curved down to the river bank, the city wall grew nearer and nearer until they had passed the southern gate and were rattling over the stony causeway, leaving the broad Luxembourg upon their right and Colbert's last work, the Invalides, upon their left. The young officer had his head still thrust out of the window, but his view was obscured by a broad gilded carriage which lumbered heavily along in front of them. As the road broadened, however, it swerved to one side, and he was able to catch a glimpse of the Calicut house.

It was surrounded on every side by an immense crowd.

The house of the Huguenot merchant was a tall, narrow building, standing at the corner of the Rue St. Martin and the Rue de Biron. It was four stories in height, grim and grave like its owner, with high peaked roof, long diamond paned windows, a framework of black wood, with gray plaster filling the interstices, and five stone steps which led up to the narrow and somber door. The upper story was but a warehouse, in which the trader kept his stock, but the second and third were furnished with balconies edged with stout wooden balustrades. As the uncle and the nephew sprang out of the caliche they found themselves upon the outskirts of a dense crowd of people, who were swarming and tossing with excitement, their limbs all thrown forward and their gaze directed upward. Following their eyes, the young officer saw a slight figure left him standing before of every sensation save amazement.

From the upper balcony there was hanging head downward a man clad in a blue coat and white breeches of one of the king's dragoons. His hat and wig had dropped off, and his close cropped head swung slowly backward and forward a good fifty feet above the pavement. His voice resounded over the whole place until the air was filled with his screams for mercy.

Above him at the corner of the balcony there stood a young man who leaned with a bent back over the balustrade and who held the dangling dragon by either ankle. His face, however, was not directed toward his victim, but was half turned over his shoulder to confront a group of soldiers who were clustering at the long open window which opened out into the balcony.

Suddenly the crowd gave a groan of excitement. The young man had released his grip upon one of the necks, and the dragon lunged now by one only, his other leg flapping helplessly in the air.

"Pull me up, son of the devil, pull me up!" he screamed.

BILLIONS LOST BY PLAYFUL BOY

Carried The Lease For Trinity Church Into Woods.

Had Used It to Chase Chickens and Now Grown Old Cannot Tell Where It Is.

HUNDRED ACRES IN NEW YORK

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 5.—Billions lost because an ancient lease was used as a plaything by children. That is the story told by Henry Forncrook, who was supposed to hold the lease on which the Forncrook heirs relied to make good their claim to 160 acres of land in the center of New York city, which is estimated to be worth $15,000,000,000.

It is claimed by the heirs that this land was leased by their ancestor to Trinity Corporation on a 99-year lease, which expired in 1871. At that time no one remembered the lease, and the matter was allowed to drift along until some years ago, when one of the heirs learned the story of the lease and began investigating.

It was found that Henry Forncrook, now 84 years of age and an inmate of the national home here, knew of the lease, and it was believed that he had it in his possession.

He can not remember what became of it. He said that as a boy he used to take the roll of parchment for a club to chase away the chickens, and as there were few books those days, he later used it as a spelling book, studying out the ancient characters. He said his father told him it was a lease signed by his father to some land in New York city. Mr. Forncrook said his father said one time:

"I guess it don't amount to much, but we might as well save it."

For all that the father permitted the boy to keep it as a plaything. One day he took it with him when he went out to a grove in which there were caves, where the boys played. That is the last he remembers of the document which means so much now to people all over the country.

"For years I have been trying to jog my memory," he said. "It does seem to me some time as if I might jog my memory so it would get beyond the snag which now holds up the disappearance of the lease."

"No one paid any attention to the loss at the time, as there was no one in the family who in their wildest moments of imagination dreamed that the land covered by the lease would be worth $100 a square inch."

It is alleged they sold stolen groceries.

Albert Rogers got one month in jail for stealing an overcoat and pair of shoes from Welle's store.

Little Barnes, colored, for stealing a bolt of ribbon from Kirby's store got ten days in jail.

Suits Filed.

B. O. Thompson filed suit yesterday against Mason Stanley for $115 alleged to be due on merchandise.

Maggie Siegfried filed suit against Leander Siegfried for a divorce and the custody of their two children, alleging abandonment. They married February 15, 1894, and separated August 4, 1904.

Deeds Filed.

Jake Biederman and others to Will Reynolds and others, property in Rowlandtown, $75.

Marriage Licenses.

H. L. Travis, city, 31, to Della Taylor, city, 24.

Thomas A. Mills, county, 38, to Minnie Alice Jones, county, 35.

In Police Court.

The names of four prominent residents of the city appeared on the police court docket this morning. They pleaded guilty and were fined $5 and costs each.

Attorneys T. L. Crie and J. C. Flournoy, and Councilman Louis Kolb and Druggist George DuBois were the defendants. The two former had a difficulty Saturday in Bradshaw & Bradshaw's law office, and the latter at DuBois' drug store on Broadway.

Mary Thurman, colored, was sent to the county jail pending an investigation by the grand jury. She is suspected of being implicated in the malicious cutting of Ed Burress. Ed Williams, colored, alleged to have done the cutting, was held over with the woman to the grand jury this morning.

Other cases: George Parker, drunkenness, $1 and costs; Alvin Adkins, breach of ordinance, dismissed; Charles Stephens, colored, drunkenness, $1 and costs.
